The leading Indian techno-digital agency has established its US base as Silver Cloud Digital to represent its US operations.

C Com Digital, India's renowned full-service digital techno agency, is in a mode of expansion internationally. They opened an office in New York, US, as Silver Cloud Digital in 2019 to cater to their US businesses. The company has received a positive response from US markets, marking its transformation from a marketing communications agency and digital marketing to a specialist IT service provider for its US clients.

C Com Digital has also been closely involved in global digital transformation as it served its customers during COVID-19 with high-quality marketing communications and digital services. With customers increasingly switching to online presence and communication, nearly all businesses need a solid digital framework and communication solutions to stay relevant in the new normal.

Speaking of this, Chandan Bagwe, Founder and Director of C Com DigitalShe said, "Since the beginning of the pandemic, we have identified the need for digital solutions to solve business problems. We have been in the techno-digital space for a long time and have the skills to create a high impact combination of our creativity, innovation and advanced technologies. By introducing our IT-enabled services in the United States, we are expanding our range of offerings and aim to become an international provider of reliable, efficient and cost-effective IT-enabled services. Our expansion marks a great opportunity for Indian companies in the techno-digital space as it will pave the way for more partnerships and business growth for the entire ecosystem in the coming times. "

C Com Digital founder Chandan Bagwe will visit New York, New Jersey and California in November 2022 to interact with their existing customers and meet new customers to introduce them to the wide range of services and solutions.

Silver Cloud Digital will now lead services such as enterprise mobility solutions, program support, cloud computing, custom software development, and enterprise data management for its international clients.
